Two Credit Unions Offer Their First ATM Solution to Serve their Members

Atlanta, GA – LES Federal Credit Union in Baton Rouge, Louisiana and Mercy Federal Credit Union in Savannah, Georgia have launched their first remote ATM solution to serve their members in partnership with CashTrans.

LES Federal Credit Union serves Louisiana state employees and has worked closely with CashTrans to install a free standing cash dispenser at one of the major government buildings in downtown Baton Rouge. “We are very pleased to offer this added convenience to our members at a cost far below what we had expected. It is a great service and our members are very pleased with the added convenience,” states, Jackie Patin, President and CEO of LES.

Mercy Federal Credit Union in Savannah, Georgia also placed its first ATM on the St. Joseph's Hospital Campus to provide convenience for their members around-the-clock. “Since most of our members are affiliated with St. Joseph's, we felt it would be highly beneficial to our members to have an ATM conveniently located on the hospital campus,” said Trish Payne, Manager of Mercy Federal.

Clearly, these different ATM solutions deliver convenience and service to the members of both credit unions. “We work very closely with our credit union partners to deliver the best ATM solution available at the lowest possible cost,” says Fred Ethridge, President of CashTrans. “We take the headaches out of the business and can provide full turn-key solutions with no capital outlay that many smaller credit unions appreciate,” continues Mr. Ethridge.
