CashTrans and Wise Design Architecture have Teamed to Provide Unique Branch Transformation Solutions!

Atlanta, GA. – Wise Design Architecture, P.C. and Cash Transactions, LLC are well respected companies serving financial institutions for many years across the country. We are pleased to announce that CashTrans and Wise Design have teamed to provide unique “Branch Transformation Solutions” to better serve our mutual financial and retail clients across the U.S. Both firms recognize the critical importance of facilities design from planning, architectural and interior design that support the changing needs in both retailing and financial services.

As banks and credit unions expand their retail footprints, this relationship brings together a more integrated seamless approach that supports our clients’ needs whether it is for ATMs, teller workstations, safes, automated teller equipment, security systems, drive through equipment, etc.

“This is a wonderful partnership that brings together masterful facilities design with all the automated and branch equipment needs of our mutual clients. CashTrans is delighted with our expanded relationship and we look forward to working with the Wise Design team now and in years ahead,” states Fred Ethridge, President CashTrans.

“CashTrans is a perfect partner in that it complements our services in a significant way by providing a more seamless solution to many of our mutual financial and retail clients. This alliance also broadens our mutual design consulting expertise,” stated John Wise, AIA President Wise Design.
